VGM National Competitive Bidding Services is committed to being the industry's top resource. We are driven to educate and assist our members through the competitive bidding process, providing the necessary resources and ensuring their best chance at making the proper bidding decisions. Whether you choose to bid as an individual, join a network, or take advantage of subcontracting options, VGM NCB Services has the tools you need.

"While VGM remains active in the fight to halt competitive bidding via the judicial system and support of mitigating legislation, we recognize the industry must be prepared."

Ron Bendell, President
VGM & Associates

Competitive Bidding Round 1.2: The Rules Have Changed

The VGM National Competitive Bidding Services team is coming to your city.

We're prepared to discuss all aspects of the revamped Competitive Bidding program (Round 1.2) in detail, as well as field your questions and provide you with the bidding tools for success. The agenda for this one-day educational event includes:

The current status of Competitive Bidding Program

An evaluation of Round 1 in your metro area, including lessons learned

The rules and regulations of Competitive Bidding

- Who is affected?
- What products are affected?
- Who is eligible to bid?
- How are bids evaluated?

The "Disqualified Bidders"

- Two-thirds of Round 1 bidders were rejected...why?
- What steps must be taken to significantly reduce the likelihood of rejection?
- What corrective measures has CMS taken?

Bidding options

- Should you bid on your own?
- Should you bid as a member of a network?
- Should you use subcontractors?
- Should you become a subcontractor yourself?

Bid preparation

- What forms must be completed?
- What information will be necessary?

Hard-copy documentation

- What documents are necessary?
- What data must they include and what should they look like?

The legislative battle

- We're not done fighting the fight against competitive bidding!
